

Website name: Dog-Earned

Description: My website will be a book recommendation site that helps people find new books to read. It will include books from different genres, along with information like the author, rating, description, and my personal review. Users will be able to look through books based on things like genre, mood, and rating to find something they might enjoy. I plan to use information from books I have already read and rated on Goodreads to help create the content for the website. The goal of my website is to make finding your next book easier and give readers recommendations they'll like.

Pages:

- Home
- Browse Books (with a filter for genre, number of pages, ratings, etc)
- Find your next read (recommendations based on books you like)
- About
- Reading lists (themed collections of books that cant necessarily be filtered, like "beach reads" or "quick reads")
